Summary of reasons for decision:

The Blu-ray disc contains an American sci-fi horror feature which has a current classification of R16 (Ref No. 033654). The 35mm film version was classified by the Chief Censor of Films and the decision was registered on 30 June 1992. After online research and matching the running times the feature on the Blu-ray disc appears to be identical to that already classified.

The Blu-ray version was submitted by the Film and Video Labelling Body due to the nature of the additional components which consist of notices, a commentary, extended scenes and brief behind-the-scenes components related to the feature. Also included are three short films and a documentary made by the feature's director. There is nothing in the additional components on the Blu-ray version that requires an alteration to be made to the feature's current classification of R16.
